

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to the use of a shaped article containing at least one skeleton-forming agent, proteins
5 being excepted, optionally one or more active substances and also optionally one or more auxiliary substances for the purpose of external application, to a process for producing the stated shaped articles, and also to novel shaped articles.